

Extended Response
Example of an Introduction

Rubin Hurricane Carter's case has been a subject of controversy for more than 20 years. He and John Artis were convicted of the triple murder's in The Lafayette Bar and Grill 1966 and spent 19 years in gaol. In Peter Lalor's article from The Daily Telegraph 2000, he addresses the idea that the case has been the inspiration for many; with a song, 'The Hurricane', written by Bob Dylan and a film of the same name created by director Norman Jewison based on Carter's autobiography 'The Sixteenth Round', both in favor of his innocence. However, it is questionable as to how valuable these sources are. The case was never solved and has left the public in confusion as to whether Rubin Carter is truly innocent or guilty.